This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

INSTRUCTIONS TO STUDENTS

This reading list has been prepared to facilitate the regular and systematic reading required of students in History 14 and 15. The following directions for its use are based upon long experience, and it is expected that they will be followed explicitly, both as to the way in which reading is to be done and the manner in which it is to be reported.

The minimum requirement per week is from 75 to 80 pages of the size and style of those in the volumes of the American Nation Series. Larger or smaller pages are to be estimated upon this basis,—that is upon the basis of about 225 words per page. It is suggested that the student will find added interest and value in the work if he plans his reading for the semester with the idea of gaining a general acqaintance with all of the larger histories and with as many of the special histories as is possible.

Reading is to be done topically: (1) On one topic in several books, or, (2) on several topics in one book. The topics are printed in this list in black-faced type, the references, in most cases with page or chapter citations, appearing under them.

Where chapter reference is given, all of the chapter or, in many cases, only a part of it may pertain to the topic. In every case use the table of contents or "skim" the chapter, and read and report only the part treating the topic.

Where the reference is to a single page the student must determine for himself how far the topic runs, and read and report accordingly.

Where the beginning page is not given and the word "contents" or "index" appears, refer to the table of contents or to the index to locate the topic.

Reading is to be done on the lecture topics for the current week, and reports are to be handed in at the beginning of the hour in the weekly quiz sections. Full credit will not be granted for reports turned in late without acceptable excuse; and all reading must be done before credit will be given for the course.

Reading reports are to be made out on slips approximately four by six inches in size. Each topic reported upon is to be copied verbatim from this list, in which the topics appear in the large, black-faced type immediately following the Roman numerals. The matter appearing in small, black-faced type is explanatory, and is not to be copied as a part of the topic. Beneath the topic should be written the author and the title of each book reported under that topic, together with the exact pages read. No credit will be given for reading not germane to the topic under which it is reported. References are given both to secondary works and to source material. Where reading done comes under the latter classification, the fact should be noted on the report.

Reports turned in late should be marked "Late," and if more than one slip is used in making a report the name of the student should be written on each slip.

Below is given a model report.
